

ATWOOD DETERMINED TO REACH NEW YORK

AVIATOR WHO HAS CROKEN ALL RECORDS NEARS HIS GOAL THIS AFTERNOON.

WILL END HIS FLIGHT

Has Made Wonderful Journey From St. Louis to New York Metropolis.

Port Jervis, N. Y., Aug. 23.—Determined to finish his great St. Louis-New York flight promptly Harry N. Atwood ascended from here at 7:35 this morning. The weather was ideal.

Passes Over Albany.
Albany, N. Y., Aug. 23.—Atwood passed over Albany at 9:15 miles from Port Jervis at 9:02 a. m. He headed down the Hudson River, flying beautifully.

Lands At Castletown.
Castletown, N. Y., Aug. 23.—Atwood landed near here at 9:13. He had covered 67 miles. This place is 131 miles from New York. Atwood sent to Albany for copper pontoons to attach to his machine and announced he would follow the Hudson River to Rhinecliff, N. Y., 15 miles southward late this afternoon.

Will Break Record.
Here he will have covered 1,177 miles, breaking the world's record of 1,161 miles for cross country flight recently established in Germany.

WILL ERECT HOTEL IN THE CANAL ZONE

Modern Structure For Accommodations of Guests Will Be Built At Colon By Panama Railroad.

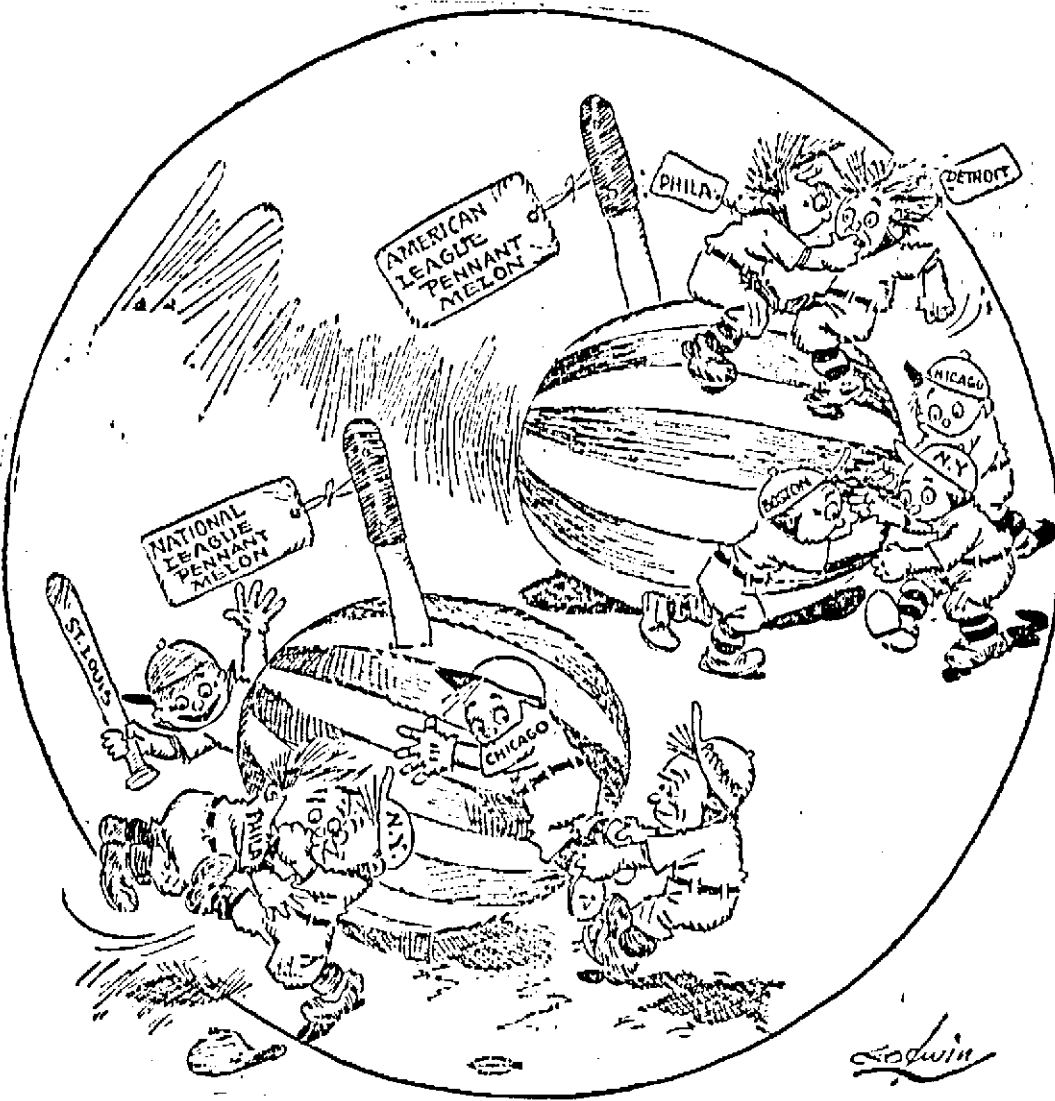

[BY UNITED PRESS.]
Washington, Aug. 23.—Everything is easy for Uncle Sam, and nowhere is this demonstrated more forcibly than in the Panama Canal Zone.

It is now announced that the Panama Railroad, which is owned by the United States, through the War Department, and which in turn owns about everything about the "big ditch," from laundry to lockages, is to build a magnificent hotel at Colon. This will be in addition to the Hotel Tivoli, now maintained at Ancon.

To Cost $500,000.
The new hotel is to be called the Washington, and is to cost not more than $500,000. It will be situated on Colon beach, close to the waterfront, with a fine outlook on Limon Bay. In the rear, on the city side, it will face a large park, which is to be enlarged and beautified during the construction of the hotel.

On the ocean side, improvements are to be made which will add to the beauty of outlook and the convenience of the hotel guest. Among the latter will be an innovation in the form of a salt water swimming pool which will be open to the sea, though protected from wind and waves and stormy weather. A bathing beach will be provided in addition to the pool, and a strong sea wall is already in process of construction.

Will Be Elaborate.
The hotel building will be 200 feet

CHINAMEN TO FORESAKE OPIUM FOR CHEWING GUM?

Escaping Common Sight at Hongkong to See Chinamen Chewing Determined on American Gum.

Washington, Aug. 23.—The march of civilization which has resulted in the introduction of cigarettes and cigars into the mouths of the Chinese people has also had the effect of making them acquainted with another Oriental luxury—chewing gum.

While gum was formerly totally unknown to the Chinese, recent reports from Hongkong state that one native firm has sold more than 35,000 worth during the past year and that the delicacy has taken a firm hold not only on the "heavenly Chinese," but also on their wives and children and that it is a common sight to see large crowds of Chinamen going through the streets of their native city, all their jaws working in unison on American chewing gum.

SEARCHING FOR MAN WHO ENTERED HOME OF A. P. BURNHAM

Officers Making Search for Negro Who is Suspected of Breaking Into Residence This Afternoon.

About half past one o'clock this afternoon the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Burnham, 615 St. Lawrence avenue, was broken into and robbed. Although as far as can be learned nothing was taken except a revolver and box of cartridges belonging to Mr. Burnham, which were kept in a table drawer in the dining room.

Returning home about half past one o'clock Mr. Burnham discovered a man, a negro, leaving the rear of his premises, evidently carrying something in front of him. The man was just disappearing into the bushes near Mr. Burnham's home when the latter saw the robber and it was impossible to see just what the man had. He immediately called for the police office over the telephone but the line being out of order could not get the officers so walked down town and notified Officer John Brown, who in turn sent word to Chief of Police George Appleby. The chief and Sheriff Ransom with Officers Patrick Fanning and Sam Brown immediately went out in two automobiles on roads in the vicinity of Janesville, searching for the colored man and making inquiries on the way, but no trace could be found of the fugitive. The driver of a wagon for the Colvin Building company claimed to have seen a negro on South Main street, but no clue was discovered of the whereabouts of the man. Mail carriers also were notified to be on the watch, but, up until a late hour the man had not been captured.

That nothing of value was secured by the robbery was mainly due to the fact that the silver and valuables had been removed to the Rock County National bank, of which Mr. Burnham is cashier, for safekeeping. Mrs. Burnham has been away from home on a visit for some time and the valuables were put in a deposit vault when she left.

The Art of Being Happy.

"Cheerfulness," says Ruskin, "is as natural to the heart of man in strong health as glow to his cheek, and wherever there is habitual gloom there must be either bad air, unwholesome food, improperly severe labor or erring habits of life." If children were taught that one of the great life duties is to unfold the fun-loving side of their nature, the humorous side, there would not be so many suicides, so many unhappy, discontented, miserable people, so many failures in the world.

TWO EXTREMES SHOWN IN BEATON'S LETTERS

Congregational Divine Writes of Wilds of the Trout Region and of the Aviation Meet in Chicago.

In the two following letters received by The Gazette from Dr. David Beaton the two extremes of life, the simple and the multiplied city happenings, are shown most clearly. Dr. Beaton writes of the cool, quiet trout streams as follows and then follows with a letter on the aviation meet of last week in Chicago.

As I informed you in my last letter, my face was set for the wild places where the speckled beauties hunt the silver stream. This was Alvo Creek, a tributary of the Brule, some eight miles through the woods back of Sand Lake, where the club resort is situated whose guest I became. After getting to Sand Lake and enjoying the fine lunch for bathing, and the genial hospitality of the members of the Eagle River Hunting and Fishing club I hiked out Monday early through the woods. The members were not very sure that a person could find life way unaltered but I had no doubt of my own of locality and boldly faced the dangers of the forest. Alas! There was no danger, the road was plain and the trail clear. So I came to Danny Kane's camp all safe and hungry and got on to the trout creek after dinner. Danny said he was a little surprised to see a man of my age carry my pack eight miles and then go home the same day and when some young fellows came in afterwards with a guide carrying their packs, he read them a lecture on the decadence of the younger generation. I got a fine catch that afternoon and another next day, and as I refused to fish with bait and got them all on two flies, Danny voted me a real sport. So I have taken another honorable degree in woodcraft, and may qualify as a scoutmaster when I come home.

One thing we hunters ought to be proud of in our fine northern play and rest grounds with such splendid lakes, bracing climate and sweet trout streams. I saw with great interest the sources of the Wisconsin river and only wished I had time to fish it, but I wanted to get into Chicago and see the "high life" and play a game of golf on some of the famous links around here. Wherever I go I find Janesville highly spoken about, and saw some of its manufacturers shading the porch. The weather is fine and in spite of the summer exodus there are still a few people left in Chicago.

Yours sincerely,
David Beaton.

Chicago, Aug. 22, 1911.

My last letter was from the wilds of nature, this is from the forefront of the ranks of civilized progress—the aviation meet at the lake front of Chicago. I thought it might be worth your readers learning something of the impressions of an eye-witness of that great event. I confess it thrilled me deeply. I had to see this new thing in man's conquest of the elements and forces of nature, and I can add most surely I gave me some new ideas of the victories won by the work.

I remember once reading of the sensations of great discoverers and inventors when the first definite idea of an utterly new thought came to their minds—like Darwin when he saw the Pacific ocean, how when he first put a needle into the cloth and made his stitch without drawing it through the other end, and so on. And I remember distinctly my own sensations when I first heard the music and speeches of a phonograph, but it was nothing to seeing those men in the air, whirling, mounting, diving and soaring truly like birds on the wing. It was not the daring and the stunts that affected me but the majesty of it all. They seemed to have been flying for ages, it looked so easy. I could have gone up with the Wright biplane that carried two passengers, only I am told a married man must get his wife's permission. How many wives might gladly avail themselves of granting this privilege! But it is not so easy to become a "high flier."

I am impressed with the great future before this new conquest of man. I think it will be made of great commercial value, as it certainly will be of great military value. I hope in connection with this latter it will be one of the improvements that render warfare more and more impossible. Never was I so impressed also with the true character and spirit of an American crowd. The hundreds of thousands who watched the airy evolutions of the birdmen were all deeply interested, fascinated, thrilled as the great winged creatures hurried overhead and then soared away, some over the lake and some to the steady flight for time and altitude. The event that fascinated me most intensely was Beaton's effort to break the world's record and the next was the exciting race between Simon, of Frenchman, and Sopwith, the Englishman, won by the latter. It was a real race, both starting like runners on the track and following the same course. If there were accidents they were no more than adventure and science learns always, claimed from society as the price of progress, and I think the conquest of the air is another proof of the greatness of the human soul over matter and the forces of nature.

David Beaton.

RECEIVED NO BIDS FOR CEMENT BRIDGE

Edgerton Council Met Last Evening To Receive Bids Which Were Not Forthcoming.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Edgerton, Aug. 23.—It doesn't look now as though Saunders' Creek would be spanned by a concrete arch bridge. The common council had plans and specifications prepared, very elaborate ones, advertised for bids and continued council meeting until Tuesday evening, the 22nd inst. in order to open the bids and decide to whom the contract should be awarded. But to the surprise of all, not a bid was made. The old bridge is unsafe, the road is barred from travel there and something must be done at once.

Women's Suffrage Party.
The Suffrage party, under the direction of the Wisconsin Political Equality League, visited Edgerton last night. The party was composed of Mrs. Henrietta C. Lyman, Wisconsin state lecturer, Miss Harriet E. Ginn of Chicago, and Miss Mabel Judd, organizer of the Wisconsin Political Equality League. The meeting was in open air and the speakers who presented their arguments in a forcible manner were surrounded by an immense assembly.

MARKET IRREGULAR BUT CHANGES SMALL

[BY UNITED PRESS.]

New York, Aug. 23.—The stock market at the opening was irregular but the changes were small. Trading was confined to half a dozen leaders. The most influence appeared to be rumors of retrenchment policies in transportation and other corporations.

HOG PRICES DOWN; CATTLE ARE STEADY

ALWAYS BETTERING, NEVER CHEAPENING

Why We Never Buy Job Lots of Anything

The only reason a manufacturer offers "job lots" is because he wants to clear his factory of last season's goods, before placing a new line on the market.

We Prefer to Buy the New Line

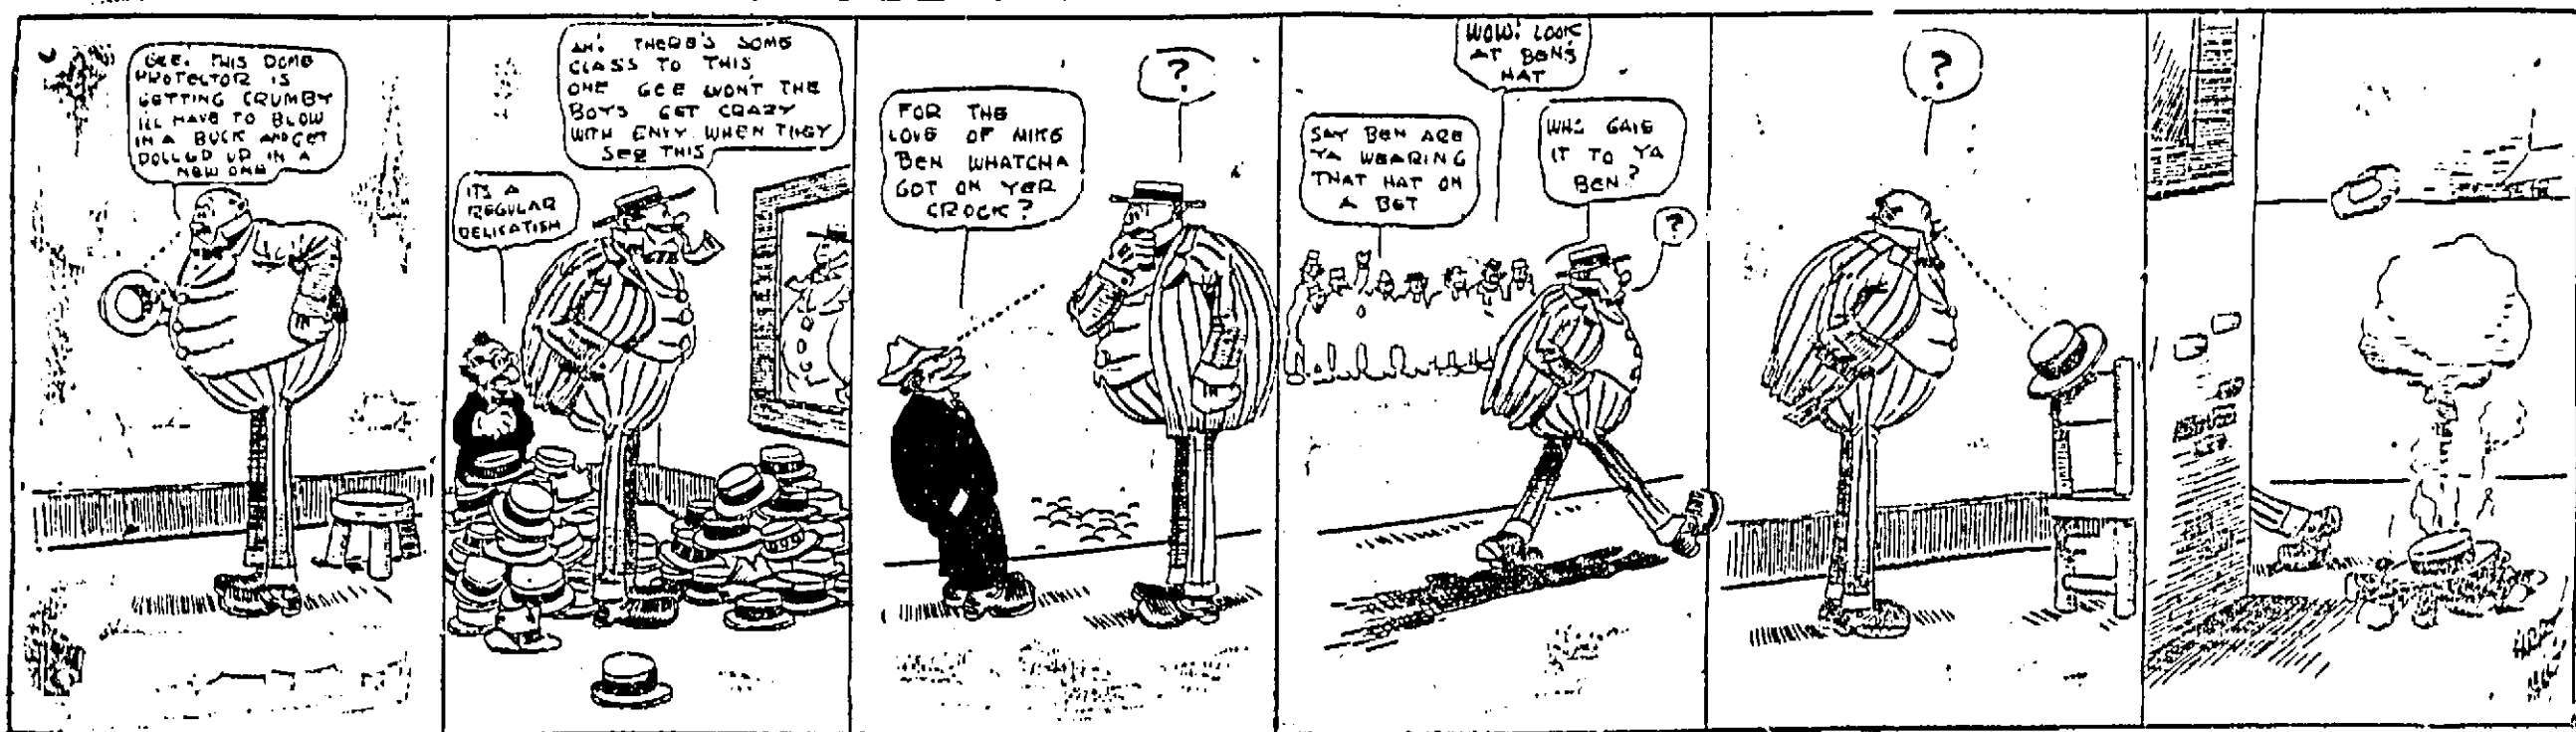

New styles at moderate prices are easier to sell than older styles at "bargain prices." Buy the new styles while they are new. The new ones get old quick enough.

SPORTING NOTES

NOTED RIDERS ARE ENTERED IN MEET

Cyrus ("Flash") Wade of "Daredevil Cy" of Milwaukee Has Been Secured For Motorcycle Races Saturday.

Harry McDaniel has returned from a trip to Detroit, Rockton, Racine, and Yost's Park, where he attended the Grocers' picnic. In the interest of the motorcycle races to be held in this city next Saturday and went to Monroe today to secure riders and advertise the meet in that city more extensively. Two boys secured accompanied Mr. McDaniel on the trip yesterday. In Rockton he secured a friend, a fast rider, as one of the entrants in the meet. On Monday Mr. McDaniel, who is in charge of the meet, secured the services of Robert Hoyer, a novice, who has been doing excellent riding on a "Thor" machine.

making records of better than 1:01. Hoyer has received no prizes for his riding and will be one of the stars of the novice class at the Janesville meet.

R. D. Sporeeder, who has made a record of thirty-eight seconds for the mile, is another of the entrants, riding a Waverley motorcycle, manufactured at Cambridge, Wis.

One of the big features of the meet will be the riding of Cyrus "Flash" Wade of Milwaukee. Wade, who is only twenty-two years old, has ridden under the name of "Daredevil Cy," and those who have seen him say he deserves the title, although it is claimed he is a heady rather than a mazy rider. Out of fifty-three races in which Wade has taken part, he has won fifty-one first prizes. He will ride the Indian machine here, a four-horse stock machine and a four-horse open port motorcycle.

Orlando Perry of Cambridge will also ride an Indian in the races and H. S. Kirk of the Excelsior Supply company has promised to send a rider with a port machine, similar to the one on which Joe Walters made five miles in 2:35 4-5 at Riverview.

CUBS TOOK BELOIT STARS INTO CAMP

Local Team Defeated Line City Nine At Groceries' Picnic Yesterday Afternoon.

In the afternoon game at Yost's Park, yesterday afternoon at the groceries' picnic, the Janesville Cubs took the Beloit Stars into camp by a score of 6 to 2, making the sixth straight victory for the Cubs. Richardson, a pitcher from Richardson, Centerville, started the game for Beloit, but his curves had been solved by the Cubs when they played at Richardson Center last year and he was knocked out of the box. Green, twirling for the Cubs, was erratic and lacked control at times, but pulled out of every tight place, at which he put himself, Beloit's two tallies were made in the second inning as the result of errors by the Cubs infield.

the Kewanee Central Association team has been sold to the Chicago White Sox.

President C. R. Williams has added Zozo Wilson to the staff of Virginia League umpires. Wilson is an old ball player.

Very few minor league clubs will make any money this season unless they are lucky enough to sell a player or two for a good price.

It is said that Manager McGraw of the Giants had to dig to the extent of $4,000 to land Outfielder Burns of the Ucla team.

Pitcher Wolfgang, of the Lowell, New England League team, has won 22 out of 26 games pitched this season. He goes to the St. Louis Browns next season.

The St. John Marathons are leading the Provincial League in New Brunswick. Marathons should be able to run the full distance in any old race.

Manager Mike Kelly of St. Paul, who sold O'Toole to Pittsburgh for $25,000, has strings on several minor league stars including George Dumas, Dumas' premier twirler.

The "Dul" sign at the Jackson, Miss., park has been lit eight times this season, and Cotton State League players have drawn down $100 for performing the stunt.

The Chicago Cubs paid the Youngstown club $4,000 for pitcher Earl Massey. This is the highest price ever paid for a pitcher in the Ohio and Pennsylvania League.

It is a pretty safe bet there will be two more Millers in the big show next season. Outfielder Miller of Montreal and Pitcher Miller of Atlanta are both wanted by major league clubs.

Harry Truby, the old Chicago player, who is unimpaired in the Mountain State League, had a run-in with a player the other day. When the player showed fight, Truby said: "Go on and get out of here. I can give you rocks and I'll take him and run you out of this park."

WITH THE BOXERS.
Maine women are becoming boxing fans. Several of them attended a bout in Augusta recently.

Low Bailey, the Philadelphia promoter, has conducted 500 boxing meetings in the Quaker City.

Jim Coffroth may sign Battling Nelson and Freddie Welsh to meet in San Francisco the latter part of this month.

Ad Wolgast and Paakey McFarland may not meet after all. Seems to be some trouble over the articles of agreement.

PLAYED FIRST ROUND FOR MORGAN TROPHY

Golfers Turn Out in Good Numbers To Try For the Annual Contest For Coveter Cup.

Golf enthusiasts assembled at the Country Club Tuesday to compete in the first round for the Morgan trophy. The play was most interesting and brought about the following results.

Al Schaller defeated E. Rayman, W. V. Wheelock, defeated Harry Carter, V. Sutherland won from G. E. King, Frank Busch defeated A. P. Dunham, S. D. Tallman won from P. Schaller, Francis Grant defeated Dr. F. B. Parkworth, Brewer defeated F. S. Sheldon, and J. L. Wilcox won from P. F. Lewis.

On Tuesday next the pairings will be Schaller and Wheelock; Sutherland and Busch; Tallman and Grant; Brewer and Wilcox. The interest in this cup is exceptional. It was presented to the club by F. W. Morgan in 1908 and each winner of the cup holds it for one year and then it goes to the winner of the next contest, held the following year. In the year 1908, the cup was won by Fred Schaller, in 1909 by S. D. Tallman, in 1910 by Fred Baker and the 1911 winner will be decided in the near future. Each winner of the cup holds it for one year and one receives a gold watch and becomes the owner of the same. The cup is old silver and valued at $100 but it is valued by a still greater price by the members of the golf club for the holder of the cup is considered the champion golf player of the organization.

After the play the regular club supper was served some sixty sitting down to the long tables, which were laid on the veranda. Then followed the regular club night dance. Tomorrow, Thursday comes the ladies afternoon bridge games, which are becoming most popular.

The Beloit Country Club has issued an open challenge to the local players for a Home and Home contest, tomorrow being named for the first contest. A team of ten players will represent the Shinneshop club and will go down on the one o'clock interurban. They will be the guests of the Beloit players at supper following the game. Thus for the prospective team that will represent Janesville is composed of the following: W. V. Wheelock, A. P. Dunham, Francis Grant, Albert Schaller, Fred Schaller, F. S. Sheldon, and George E. King. Others who will go will kindly notify Mr. King at once.

The first of the Home and Home contests with the Ridge Country Club of Chicago, will probably be arranged for some time next week. The Chicago club wrote some weeks ago that they would like to arrange for such contests and there will be a meeting of the directors of the local golf association to arrange for the affair.

CAMPBELL WILL GO TO MUSCATINE, IA.

Physical Director of Local Y. M. C. A. Has Secured Position With Muscatine Association.

Physical Director Sterling Campbell of this city, who has been temporarily in charge of the athletic department of the local Y. M. C. A. during the summer until a new man was secured for the place, has been appointed as physical director for the association at Muscatine, Ia., and will leave for Iowa September first. Mr. Campbell was selected for the position by the directors of the Muscatine association Monday night and returned to this city yesterday. The young man leaves here highly recommended by those who have known him. He is an all around athlete and has won first honors as an amateur at the annual state meet. As a leader in gymnasium class work at the association he is added and well fitted for the position he has received. He has taken part in various athletic at the Janesville Y. M. C. A. for several years past, performing at the athletic exhibitions given. The city where he will make his home has a population of 16,000 people and is situated in the southern part of Iowa on the bank of the Mississippi river. Mr. Campbell will be the second Janesville young man to take on physical director work in Iowa, Harvey, formerly of this city, now being engaged in a similar capacity at Waterloo.

CONGRESS ADJOURNS.

Congress has adjourned. It has finished the work of the extra session and the democratic and insurgent members have tried to place Taft and the republican party in a political hole without avail. Congressman Berger of Milwaukee, the only socialist member of both houses, gives a pat definition of an insurgent which will doubtless stick. He says an insurgent is eighty per cent of old disgruntled politician, thirty per cent clear hypocrisy, nine per cent nothing, and one per cent socialism. If put in a bottle and shaken well before being opened you will have the so-called progressive.

It might be interesting to see what these so-called progressives with the one per cent socialism really tried to do. President Taft called the present extra session to pass the Canadian reciprocity treaty. This was accomplished. The campaign fund before election measure was also passed and signed. The re-apportionment of representatives was passed and signed. Arizona and New Mexico were admitted to statehood with the recall of judges eliminated from the Arizona measure.

On the other hand the wool revision measure was passed and vetoed. The cotton tariff revision bill was also passed and vetoed. The farmers' free list bill passed and vetoed and the question of the direct election of United States senators left in the hands of the conference committee. Numerous investigations were begun, none finished and matters generally were left in chaos, for campaign purposes.

The passage of the Canadian reciprocity measure was in reality the big work of the session and it will have the approval of all the thinking men of the country when its provisions are fully understood. Its acceptance by Canada is a forgone conclusion and it is a great step forward. As to the veto of the various tariff measures by the President, an eastern exchange prints the following, in which the Gazette is most heartily in accord.

"It has been a matter of positive knowledge in congress as well as in the country at large from the very beginning of the special session that no legislation bearing upon the tariff, other than that relating to the Canadian reciprocity agreement, would be approved by the President. And the reason for his opposition to such legislation has been clear to everybody who has followed his course during the last year and a half. He committed himself repeatedly to tariff revision before the extra session was called. In speeches and public papers he maintained that the tariff had not been in past years, and could not be in the years to come, framed with proper regard for the business of the country and for commercial cities under the partisan political system of dealing with the schedules.

"His attitude in this regard has simply been reflective of the intelligent thought of the nation. The tariff has been revised and tinkered at in intervals during the last forty years, and always with special regard for the political advantage of one or other of the great parties. The probable ultimate upon politicians and their prospects, individually or collectively, has influenced and regulated the point of view. The tariff has been revised to strengthen partisan interests in one part of the country, to weaken them in another. Manipulation of the schedules, it was discovered at an early day, if skillfully done, could work wonders in determining results at the polls. It mattered not whether tampering with duties supposed to be stable unsettled industry and trade; what mattered was that this party or the other needed votes.

"The country had grown tired of this, even before Mr. Taft became President. When he became President and announced himself in favor of a tariff commission the country congratulated itself that a change from partisan to business methods in dealing with this great question was at length in sight. Congress, however, was not ready to accept the new process, and the proceedings of the extra session show that politicians still cling tenaciously to the idea that tariff issue is a partisan convenience. For months the business of the country has been unsettled because of threatened tariff legislation. There has really been no hope of getting measures of revision past the President, but there has been, as the politicians have viewed it, the need of making records that might be useful in the campaign of 1912.

"As a matter of fact, it is doubtful if the tariff agitation of the last few months has raised either party in public esteem. It has served any useful purpose, it has been that of confirming the thinking people of the nation in the thought that the public welfare demands the removal of the tariff question out of the domain of practical politics. It has become plain that there is far more selfishness than patriotism at the bottom of tariff legislation, and that there can be no permanent relief from incessant agitation of the tariff question while it remains a political issue and a partisan shuttlecock.

"Taking it all in all, President Taft has come out of the extra session muddied with a clean record. He has met the expectations of his friends and has done just what they wished and hoped he would do. He will go before the next republican national convention as the strongest candidate possible for re-nomination and re-election.

An exchange comments on the make-up of the State Journal at Madison by saying one good feature was that the editorials were placed on the inside section page, thus giving the readers a full page of comics instead of having to look through the paper for them. That was a bit cruel but deserved criticism.

Former President Roosevelt has told his over-zealous friends that it would be a political crime to urge his candidacy for the 1912 nomination for the presidency. In this he spoke the truth. At last the man who was once president, read the handwriting on the wall successfully.

Janesville is to have a postal bank all of its own. This is another move on the part of Uncle Sam to recognize the stability of the local postal department.

The Wisconsin democrats are having a great time selecting who shall be their national committeeman. Just as though they really needed one in this republican state.

An Indian man fell out of a balloon on Sunday and was killed. Some persons still insist on traveling in the old fashioned way even though it is unsafe.

It is sort of hard to have a proposition to grade an alley turned down and then have the council pass an ordinance to pave the same alley with brick.

Aviator Atwood wonders now why anyone ever longed for seven leagued boots when he jumps with a hop and skip from St. Louis to New York.

Chicago has no copyright on aviation. The South Dakota tornado even lifted a picnic party and took them several rods up in the air.

This country exported seven million dollars worth of patent medicines last year, but it is doubtful if the world is grateful to that amount.

The slogan of better train service with Milwaukee is not yet in evidence despite the efforts of the Milwaukee merchants to obtain it.

The Council For Sherman.
Madison Democrat: President Taft has made it known that he does not want "Sunny Jim" Sherman for a running mate next year. Mr. Sherman believes in a high tariff. He wants it sky high—higher even than the Payne-Aldrich law—and says so, without equivocation. His high tariff courage is equal to Cannon's. He doesn't dodge an inch. And President Taft, who signed the Payne-Aldrich law, the highest tariff law ever passed in this country, and who recently used his veto power to move those high rates from the slightest cut, is through with Sherman. It is a peculiar situation.

Foolhardy Flying.
Waukegan Record-Herald: The most important lesson taught by the results of the aviation meet at Chicago is that the practice of flying can be rendered, if not safe, at least comparatively so, by conservative management. The danger is greatly increased by "trick" flying. Hereafter accidents will be divided into two classes, those which are incident to the art of flying, and those resulting from unnecessary risks in flying. This may mark an advanced step in the profession, or trend, of aerial navigation.

Sympathy Unmerited.
Marquette Eagle-Star: A good deal is said in certain circles of finance about the impairment of railroad values and the great losses they are suffering. In spite of all this talk, the facts are that during the last half of the fiscal year just closed, the railroads of this country absorbed nearly half a billion of fresh capital through issues of bonds, notes and stocks. To a man up a tree this looks as if the railroads were not in need of the sympathy that they apparently seek.

Weighty Implements.
Milwaukee News: Talking about amending the tariff with blacksmith tools, it begins to look as if the people will have to use a sledge and chisel to loosen the high tax bonds. The pneumatic tools don't work.

Nor Mutton Chops.
Fond du Lac Reporter: The rail strikes in England has practically been settled and old Johnny Bull can sigh with relief once more as his supply of prime roast beef won't be cut off after all.

Carely Possible.
Milwaukee Sentinel: Col. Roosevelt is a grandfather, but think of the hopes that were shattered when he learned that it was a girl. Still, she may be able to run for the presidency one of these days.

Heart to Heart Talks.

BARE FEET AND HOOKWORMS.

Readings on this, little man, Barefoot boy with cheeks of tan, With tiny turned up pantaloons And tiny merry whistled tunes!

Remember the time when you fairly breathed through your bare feet, when to wear shoes meant suffocation? How luxuriant a pool of water, how lush the dewy grass!

To be sure— Sometimes the ruts of the road made locomotion slow and cautious and the sand grew hot in the middle of the day.

And sometimes there were thorns in the wood pasture! Remember how you sat down and took the poor foot into your lap—the slow dripping tears tracing a channel of cleanliness on the sole—and plucked the thorn away? And then, flinging off, mindful of the stone inside on your heel, how soon your hurt was forgotten!

Thorns? Occasionally, but weren't the roses sweet in those golden, golden days? Ah, that thou shouldst know thy joy! Ere it passes, barefoot boy?

Well, we knew our joys all right in those days, even as we knew our sorrows, but—the boy of the future? If the hookworm expert have their way there will be no more barefoot boys with cheeks of tan for Whittiers to write about.

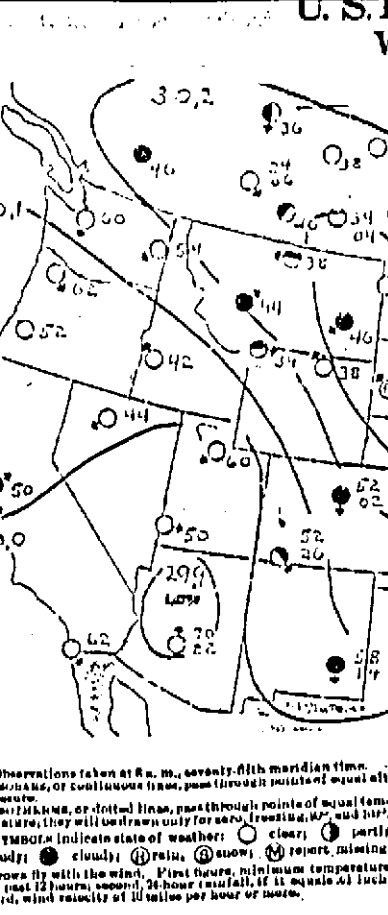

You have heard of the hookworm? It is the deadly cause of laziness in boys, and it paralyzes the systems of grown men. Well, how do you suppose the hookworm does its work? Through barefoot soles!

Which explains much. It was the hookworm that made you long to tell to leafy shades and loaf beside still water. It was the hookworm that got into you through bare feet that caused you to forget your tasks while you dreamed of turleted castles or fondled palms and lovely heart, which made you see visions of white presences on the hills and all that glorious something afar from the field of boyish commonplace.

Hookworms, my dear sir! And if you had known you could have explained to your doting but stern parent the strange lassitude that crept over you when told to fill the wood box or hoe the cabbagees. Hookworms!

Poor boy of the future! He will never know barefooted happiness. The hookworm will "catch him if he don't watch out!"

All too soon his feet must hide In the prison cell of mud, Like a cat's for water to shed.

WEATHER CONDITIONS.
The barometric depression that was over eastern Ontario yesterday has now reached the St. Lawrence valley. It was attended by light rains in the lower lake region at Toledo, and in the St. Lawrence valley at Montreal. The area of high atmospheric pressure, or anti-cyclone as it is technically called, that followed the barometric depression, now occupies the north central portion of the United States and stretches off to the north-west over Canada. It is accompanied by cooler weather and clear skies in the central portion along the northern border. Its southern edge, on the southern plains, Gulf states, and the southwest, is marked by unsettled and showery weather, although the rainfalls have been light. This anti-cyclone will pass over Wisconsin this afternoon and tonight, when the weather will be clear and continued cool. Thursday will bring the unsettled weather that is now in the southwest, somewhat heavier, and increasing cloudiness may then be expected.

He said: "The devil didn't mind first being chased away, and among the then I'll change the DOCTORS' treatment, and make a tea of hay; I'll give you shrewdly toothpicks, and ink and powder snuff, and burn some yellow feathers, and thus cure you up yehes. This house can cure no healing till ghosts are chased therefrom; so watch me play the cowbell, and swat the 'Thomasston.' When I fell sick in Kansas, the stern physician came, and spent the morning working the diagnosis game: he phoned me in the larynx, he poked me in the lung, he hit me with a hammer, he splinted at my tongue. And then he growled with pity, and scratched his whiskered jaw, and said: 'It's banjoitis—worst case I ever saw! Just bring an ax and a buck-saw, and water in a keg, and sit upon his forehead—I must have off his leg.' When next I awoke, how hot he was, and I am sure I'll hush back to China, where doctors know their trade.

WRIGHT MEN WILL NOT FLY

Boston Aviation Meet Officials Hear Inventors Will Be Absent.

Boston, Aug. 23.—The Wright brothers have refused to enter their airplanes and machines in the Boston meet which opens Saturday. Their attitude is unexplained, and it is possible they contemplate legal proceedings in line with the action against the Chicago meet promoters.

Last week Manager Clifton of the Boston meet spent a day with one of the Wright brothers in New York city. They talked over the coming contents here. This year the Boston management is allowing $500 each as a guarantee to all American flyers. Last year the Wrights got a guarantee of $20,000 and won about $11,000 in prize money.

Brooklyn Fighter Batters Illinois "Thunderbolt" in New York Bout.
New York, Aug. 23.—Sailor Burke of Brooklyn out fought and battered Billy Papke of Illinois, who claims the middleweight championship, 14 rounds at the Twentieth Century Athletic club.

It was a disappointing mill to all these patrons of boxing who expected a different showing from the western man, and the crowd booed and booed continually after the first two rounds.

Two of the newly-appointed state boxing commissioners were near the ring, closely following the movements of the fighters.

WEATHER BUREAU

WILLIS L. MOORE, Chief.

WEATHER CONDITIONS.
The barometric depression that was over eastern Ontario yesterday has now reached the St. Lawrence valley. It was attended by light rains in the lower lake region at Toledo, and in the St. Lawrence valley at Montreal. The area of high atmospheric pressure, or anti-cyclone as it is technically called, that followed the barometric depression, now occupies the north central portion of the United States and stretches off to the north-west over Canada. It is accompanied by cooler weather and clear skies in the central portion along the northern border. Its southern edge, on the southern plains, Gulf states, and the southwest, is marked by unsettled and showery weather, although the rainfalls have been light. This anti-cyclone will pass over Wisconsin this afternoon and tonight, when the weather will be clear and continued cool. Thursday will bring the unsettled weather that is now in the southwest, somewhat heavier, and increasing cloudiness may then be expected.

CURIOUS BITS OF HISTORY

By A. W. MACY.

THE BATTLE OF THE KEGS.

At one time during the War of the Revolution some enterprising patriots of Bordentown, N. J., fixed up a few torpedoes in the shape of kegs, and sent them floating down the river. They were filled with gunpowder, and so arranged mechanically that rubbing against another object they would explode. It was hoped that one of them might come in contact with one of the British ships lying at anchor at Philadelphia, and blow her up. This hope was not realized, but they succeeded in scaring the British in and around Philadelphia within an inch of their lives. One of the "kegs" rubbed against a block of floating ice and exploded, creating wild consternation among the British. For twenty-four hours thereafter they fired at every object seen moving on the bosom of the river. This afforded great amusement to the Americans, and Judge Francis Hopkins, one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence, wrote a ballad about the affair, in which he poked much fun at the British. The closing stanza read thus: "Such feats they did perform that day Against those wicked kegs, sir, That years to come, if they get home, They'll make their boats and and brags, sir."

You Can Be Made Well if you will come to the Chiropractors

Every disease known to mankind yields to Chiropractic adjustments. Chiropractic is a science of old truths the most wonderful aid to mankind in centuries. It analyzes and locates unerringly the physical cause of disease and provides a means of adjusting or removing the cause more promptly, radically and permanently than any other method known at the present time. These men seem bold statements to make, yet there is plenty of proof to back them up. If you are sick and suffering, if you have tried the medical profession and failed to be cured, come to us. 98% of the people that come to the Chiropractors get well and that in the face of the fact that 75% of these same people had been given up by the medical profession.

Call for an examination and consultation in regard to your troubles. Even though slight they may be danger signals of more serious ailments.

ANALYSIS MADE OF WATER DECISION

COMMUNICATION TENDERED THE GAZETTE REVIEWING WINTER SITUATION.

FINDS A DECIDED LOSS

To Individuals—Urges That no Further Action be Taken in the Matter To Increase Cost.

In the following analysis of the recent decision of the railroad rate commission as regards the action brought by the City of Janesville against the Janesville Water Company, two prominent attorneys have gone over the matter carefully for the Gazette and have submitted the following opinion. That the decision will work a decided hardship on many will be realized after it goes into effect. The opinion given is as follows:

This case was begun originally by the city attorney on behalf of a private consumer and without authority of the common council. After the original complaint was filed on January 21, 1909, the council ratified the case, authorized the city attorney to proceed in the matter and directed a further complaint to be filed, which was done April 19, 1910. The grievances complained of were in substance as follows:

1. That the company requires installation of meters at consumers' expense and disconnects the water in case of refusal.

2. That the consumers can purchase no meters except from the Water company.

3. That the minimum meter rate of $2.50 per quarter, entitling the consumer to 7,200 gallons of water, is unreasonable.

4. That the company compels consumers to install service from water main to curb line.

5. That the company furnishes impure water and pumps from Rock river.

6. That the company's rules and regulations are unreasonable.

7. That the company refuses to make extensions ordered by the city.

The decision finds as a fact that the Water company furnishes no impure water and that, as now equipped, it is an impossibility for the company to pump any water from Rock river into its mains.

On the reasonableness of the rules the decision is in substance: "A careful examination of the rules and regulations shows that they are, in general, reasonable"; and then proceeds to enumerate those that are abrogated by the new schedule.

As to the extensions ordered, the Commission decides that the one on St. Mary's avenue be laid, and leaves it to the council to order the others as it sees fit, subject of course to the new city rate.

The decision finds the management of the Water company efficient and economical.

After deciding these facts, among others, the commission orders in substance as follows:

1. Hereafter meters and service pipes from water main to curb must be installed by the company.

2. Meters owned by consumers to be purchased by the company for a price to be agreed upon, or the consumer have a rental of $1.50 per year for same, to be applied on his water bill.

3. All public buildings shall be metered and charged regular rate.

4. All public fountains to be metered or pay a flat rate of $15 per year apiece.

5. Street sprinkling rates to remain as at present.

6. The city to pay for fire protection and sewer flushing, $15,500.

7. Consumers' flat rates to remain as at present, $5.00 minimum, except for every room over minimum, the additional charge is reduced from seventy-five cents to fifty cents, and bathroom from $1.00 to $3.00.

8. Charge for all water consumed: 7 1/2 for first 50,000 gallons; 5 1/2 for second 50,000 gallons; 4 1/2 for over 100,000 gallons, per quarter.

9. Fixed meter charge to be paid regardless of water consumed and not to apply upon the payment for any water.

$1.50 per quarter for 1/2 to 5/8 in meter;
$2.00 per quarter for 3/4 in meter; and then an increased sum as the size of the meter increases, which affects only the very largest consumers.

The only consumer getting the 4c per 1,000 gallons rate under the above schedule is the Chicago & Northwestern Railway company, whose big consumption is at the South Yards, outside of the city where the company need furnish no water at all under its former franchise. The commission finds that it costs 3 1/2 c per 1,000 gallons to pump the water which the Railway company gets for 4c. This actual loss to the company, the city and consumers must make good. The decision actually boots to the railroad company at the expense of the people of Janesville.

Figures Are Given.
The commission finds as a fact that the gross earnings of the company for 1910 were $12,524.99, which it must have considered wholly reasonable because it estimates the gross income of the utility under the new schedule at $13,322.43.

The practical effect of this decision on the Water company will become quite plain, when it is considered that the commission has added $505.19 to the highest gross income heretofore enjoyed by that company, and determined the rate schedule on that basis.

The present city hydrant and sewer flushing expense of the city is less than $2,500. $7,216, to be accurate. The new schedule expense is $15,500, or a fixed jump in taxes of $5,500. Conservatively estimated, the public water consumption, outside of fire protection and sewer flushing, will approximate over $2,000. But discounting this $500, we have an actual increase in annual taxes of $10,000 on a gross levy of $140,000 in round numbers, or a little over 7 per cent on the tax levy.

How Citizen Feels.
It is then quite plain that the citizens of Janesville fares about as follows: If he is a renter and pays no taxes and consumes water, he may gain a very small sum annually; if he is a flat rate consumer and pays taxes, he is sure to lose; if he is a minimum consumer by meter he gains a very nominal sum on his consumption and loses a more than 7 per cent increase in his taxes; if he is a large taxpayer, he is sure to lose largely, regardless of his water consumption; and if he pays taxes and furnishes his own water he has the increase in taxes to bear in company with the rest of us. As a taxpayer, therefore, speaking generally because there may be exceptions, the citizens of Janesville, as a result of this ill-advised litigation, got the worst of it by many dollars.

Buy Water Company.
Now, some say, "Buy the Water company." Passing all that may be said on that, regardless of the decision, that would mean no change in rates or schedule until the plant was paid for, which would be many years hence. The commission fixes the rates of municipal plants as well as private, and the decisions show that the utilities are treated practically alike, regardless of ownership.

There is also now being agitated, the matter of appealing to the federal court to keep the old contract intact, because, it is said, under the constitution no law can be valid which impairs the obligations of a contract. That proposition simply amounts to this: The city applied to the commission for relief from that part of the contract (franchise), which applied to the private consumer only and the ordered extensions, and the commission decided that it was but fair to relieve the city from the whole of it and make what looked to it like a fair adjustment. Now there is talk of an appeal to the federal court and the spending of thousands of dollars to get the old contract back in its entirety, because the franchise was, of course, an entire and indivisible contract. That is certainly poor business for the taxpayer, when we consider that our own supreme court has but recently decided that the law in question does not impair the obligations of a contract and is valid. But how about the city being the first to ask the interference of the commission to impair its own contract? Suppose, however, the city in such a suit should win, it has accomplished nothing except to spend a lot of money. The courts have no rate-making power and even if they would find for the city the legal point involved it would mean no relief. The commission has said what the Water company shall have by way of income and why go to the federal court to find whether the taxpayer shall pay it out of his left or right-hand pocket? All chances are against the successful outcome of such a suit, but whatever the result, it and nothing will have been gained except a good sized expense account and lawyer's bill. It looks like the part of wisdom to now take our medicine and not spend foolishly public money so badly needed for the improvement of our city.

In view of our now sad experience, it is suggested that it would also be the part of wisdom for the common council hereafter, before sanctioning or authorizing lawsuits or complaints to the Railroad Commission, to at least get some expert advice and find out what would be for the best interests of the taxpayers. It seems that the exercise of some good business common-sense is needed right now.

The commission fixes the rates of municipal plants as well as private, and the decisions show that the utilities are treated practically alike, regardless of ownership.

There is also now being agitated, the matter of appealing to the federal court to keep the old contract intact, because, it is said, under the constitution no law can be valid which impairs the obligations of a contract. That proposition simply amounts to this: The city applied to the commission for relief from that part of the contract (franchise), which applied to the private consumer only and the ordered extensions, and the commission decided that it was but fair to relieve the city from the whole of it and make what looked to it like a fair adjustment. Now there is talk of an appeal to the federal court and the spending of thousands of dollars to get the old contract back in its entirety, because the franchise was, of course, an entire and indivisible contract. That is certainly poor business for the taxpayer, when we consider that our own supreme court has but recently decided that the law in question does not impair the obligations of a contract and is valid. But how about the city being the first to ask the interference of the commission to impair its own contract? Suppose, however, the city in such a suit should win, it has accomplished nothing except to spend a lot of money. The courts have no rate-making power and even if they would find for the city the legal point involved it would mean no relief. The commission has said what the Water company shall have by way of income and why go to the federal court to find whether the taxpayer shall pay it out of his left or right-hand pocket? All chances are against the successful outcome of such a suit, but whatever the result, it and nothing will have been gained except a good sized expense account and lawyer's bill. It looks like the part of wisdom to now take our medicine and not spend foolishly public money so badly needed for the improvement of our city.

TO SECURE BETTER OBSERVANCE OF LAW

State Inspector of Dairy and Food Commission on Tour to Obtain Enforcement of Recent Enactment.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Madison, Wis., Aug. 23.—William F. Scott, inspector for the state dairy and food commission, is making visits to Wisconsin cities to compel a better compliance with the new dairy and food laws, and particularly of the statute which prohibits the display of food and vegetables on the sidewalk unless covered. Although dealers generally are co-operating to insure cleanliness in this way, there is still great room for improvement. The dairy and food commission is enforcing its powers of prosecution to bring about a more ideal condition.

The new law requiring the covering of food supplies on the sidewalk in front of a store contains a provision exempting vegetables and fruits which have to be peeled before eating. This provision is considered unfortunate, and the inspectors point to watermelons and other produce which are exposed to street contamination of various kinds to the certain injury to health. There is a current belief that at the next session of the legislature a bill will be promoted to bar all foodstuffs from sidewalks.

Dealers would go beyond the letter of the law and raise their sidewalk displays above the level of the sidewalk a great improvement will have been made, says Mr. Scott, and everywhere he goes around the state he is urging dealers to take this advanced step. In this campaign of education for purer foods, the inspectors are having the aid of many careful householders who refuse to buy goods that are exposed on sidewalks.

Copies of the new dairy and food laws are being sent out to health boards and others interested by the thousands and nothing is being left undone to aid in a general enforcement of the laws.

Farmers to Finance Big Project.

Ellensburg, Wash., Aug. 23.—At a special election next month the farmers of the Kittitas Valley will vote a bond issue of several million dollars for the creation of an irrigation district by the construction of a canal from Lake Kachess in the upper part of Kittitas County to their lands. It will be the largest irrigation project yet undertaken in the state of Washington and the most colossal scheme of its kind ever financed by farmers in any section of the country. The bond to be voted will finance the existing canals in Kittitas County, which is the nearest irrigated district within reach of Seattle, Tacoma and Puget Sound markets. Kittitas County is the largest hay-producing county in the Northwest and for some years has furnished the War Department the hay used in the Philippine Islands. Of late years thousands of acres have been put out in apples, pears and small fruits.

Alabama Metropolitan Vote On Liquor. Birmingham, Ala., Aug. 23.—Jefferson County, the largest county of Alabama, will vote a special election tomorrow on the question as to whether legalizing selling of liquor shall return or not. In addition to Birmingham the county embraces Bessemer and several other populous manufacturing centers, in consequence of which the election is regarded as the stiffest test to which prohibition has been put in Alabama since the adoption of the State Wide prohibition law several years ago. Whether the law several years ago. Whether the dispensary system or sale by licensed saloons will rule in the event the city goes "wet" will be decided by the election. Both the prohibition and anti-prohibition forces have conducted vigorous campaigns, having their confidence in the presumption that Birmingham will follow the example of Mobile and Montgomery, the two other largest cities of the State, which already have gone "wet".

Frontier Day Carnival

Cheyenne, Wyo., Aug. 23.—Excursion trains from all points as far distant as Omaha, Kansas City and Denver arrived here today with crowds of visitors to the Frontier Day Carnival. The carnival is the fifteenth annual affair of its kind held in Cheyenne and every indication points to the largest crowd ever entertained here. The festivities will continue until the end of the week. The program provides for numerous parades, races, pageants and competitions of various sorts in which hundreds of cowboys and Indians will participate. The entire city is elaborately decorated in honor of the celebration and among the residents and visitors alike the carnival spirit reigns supreme.

Veterans Parade At Rochester

Rochester, N. Y., Aug. 23.—President Taft, as the guest of the Grand Army national encampment, today reviewed the gray-haired veterans of the Civil War as they marched through the streets of Rochester with flags flying, bands playing and crowds cheering. Through two miles of shaded streets the old campaigners of Grant and Sherman moved in martial array to the bare of bands and the pipe and the roll of field drums. The procession started shortly after 10 o'clock this morning and was more than four hours in passing the reviewing stand on Clinton Ave. Occupying the seats with the President in the reviewing stand were Governor Dix of New York, Mayor Egerton of Rochester, and a number of other notables. Each division of the column of blue-clad veterans approached the stand the colors were dipped and each department commander joined Commander-in-Chief Gilman in the stand.

AMERICANS WAGED STRENUOUS FIGHT ON THE VETO BILL

Two Men Claiming United States As Home, Argued Pros and Cons of Lords' Veto Bill in London Newspaper.

(BY UNITED PRESS.)

London, Aug. 23.—Two Americans took an active part in the controversy which raged around the veto bill recently passed by the House of Lords, which abrogated a large portion of that body's functions and powers. The circumstances of two foreigners figuring prominently in a purely domestic quarrel is the more odd in view of the fact that they were on opposite sides of the fence. Both, throughout the consideration of the bill in the two houses, were constantly writing to the newspapers setting forth their views and addressing mass meetings.

The Yankee champion of the house of Lords hid his identity behind the name of "An American Exile." The American colony in London has recently been told the world through the Pierpont Morgan publishing trust how much more efficient and in every way desirable a monarchy is than a republic.

His opponent was George L. Fox, of New Haven, Conn., who is stopping at the Strand Palace Hotel. Fox is a veteran instructor who is said to have prepared more boys for Yale than any other teacher.

Twenty-one years ago he visited England for the first time, and became so interested in the fight the Liberal party was making for the people and against privilege that he offered his services to help along the cause. Since that time he has taken part in every general election campaign.

In the "budget" fight of 1909 the Liberal leaders sent him to explain to the electorate the systems of land taxation in operation in the United States and Canada and he was again requisitioned to educate the masses in preparation for the contest, just closed.

A few weeks ago, "An American Exile" made his first appearance in the "Times," possibly to counteract the efforts of Fox. The "exile" devoted more than a column to show that all Americans viewed with horror the notion of abolishing the House of Lords and the adoption of the single-chamber system.

"Exile" admitted that the American Senate has done "many unpopular and unwise acts." "It has usurped power." "It has encroached upon the executive." "It has snatched from the House of Representatives an appreciable portion of its authority." It has done a lot of other things.

"Yet," continued "Exile," "mark the differences. Never once have the American people thought of abolishing either the Senate or its legislative authority. Never once has the mad dream of a single chamber been the nightmare of American politics."

"Exile" apologized for butting in. "No business of ours? It is the business of every people who care for sound government, for ordered freedom." And he went on to say, "The English Parliament—it has been said a thousand times—is the Mother of Parliaments, and it is to be destroyed. The parliament as it has existed for 700 years is to be given to exist. England is to be governed by a single chamber, which Cromwell called the 'horriddest government of all.'"

He attacked "the heresy of delegation which has not begun to profane the political religion of the United States. He charged that prime minister Asquith is treating the power of the people as delegated to the Parliament; the power of Parliament as delegated to the cabinet; the power of the cabinet as delegated to John Redmond."

Fox came back at the "Exile" through the columns of the same newspaper. The duel went on merrily until the final vote on the bill was taken. Fox in an interview with the United Press said he could not be sure of the identity of "An American Exile." "I could guess, though," he said, "His arguments are as full of holes as every Tory argument is bound to be, because right and reason are not on the Tory side. It seems funny enough to hear an American slinging the praises of the House of Lords comparing it with our own senate, which, heaven knows, is bad enough, and telling everybody that Americans generally were shocked at the idea of wiping the Glorious Chamber off the earth."

"In my speeches about the country I told the voters just what Americans—and Canadians, too—think of the House of Lords, of the property qualification, of plural voting, and the many other evils under which a patient people have suffered so long. I told them that seven of the nine provinces of Canada have single-chamber legislatures with greater powers than the British house of commons has under the veto bill. Ontario, the greatest Canadian province, is entirely under the control of a single-chamber government, to the entire satisfaction of its citizens."

"There are Tory members of Parliament here who know these facts as well as I, but sedulously concealed them. Such members as Bonar Law, Sir Gilbert Parker, Donald Mac Master and William Hay Alden know that single-chamber government has been tried in Canada and not found wanting."

"As for 'Exile's' comparison of our senate and the House of Lords, it was so transparent as to confuse itself. It is one thing to give coordinate legislative powers to a senate chosen by the states' legislature, and quite another to give the senate powers to a clique of hereditary legislators who have proved themselves to be corrupt and selfish and who represent no one but themselves."

"When 'Exile' said the 'heresy of delegation' has not even begun to profane the political religion of the United States," he said what was not true. The solemn fact is that in its whole history the government of the United States is entirely on the principle of delegated power. "I wonder," Fox continued, "who 'Exile' is and whom he represented. He found his level. For twenty years I have taken part in political controversies in England, and I have sat in the visitors' gallery in the House of Commons hundreds of times, and I can honestly say that in its methods, parliamentary and electing the Tory party is the rottenest political organization in the world, not barring Thugman."

"The cheering phase of the fight is the change that has come over the people. I have watched them many years, and I know that the English workman is not the unthinking clod of a century ago. He is the most up-to-date workman on earth, and in spite of the whims and misrepresentations of the 'gentlemanly party,' he has a very concrete idea of the sort of government he wants and the best way of going to work to get it."

London, August 23.—Portuguese monarchist refugees are continuing their plotting in London for King Manuel's restoration to the throne. Just how deeply the ex-King himself is concerned in the conspiracies is uncertain but there is no doubt that he is at least kept informed of what is going on. The Marquis de Soveral, who was a Portuguese minister in England up to the time of Manuel's deposition, is probably the real life of the conspiracies, in which several English men and women of very high birth and considerable wealth are also said to be interested.

It is an open secret that the English government is seriously annoyed by the refugees' activity and has been several times on the point of intimating to the foreign plotters that, unless they let Portuguese politics alone, the government would prefer a termination of their residence on British soil. The situation is, however, somewhat embarrassing, Manuel himself being a very close friend of the English royal family and the Marquis de Soveral, as one of the late King Edward's closest personal cronies, a man whom it is more than unpleasant to offend.

The plotters in England are in close touch with those in Spain, along the Portuguese frontier, and it is understood that the plan is for an invasion of northern Portugal at the psychological moment, with Manuel at the invaders' head.

A Poet's Estate.

After 57 years, the Russian courts have settled up the estate of the poet Gogol, celebrated in his day as a writer of lyrics. The poet died of hunger, having before an illness. The estate is valued at 43 roubles and 88 kopecks, or about $21.50.

The Skin and Not the Blood.

Until recently it has been generally accepted proposition that eczema was a disease of the blood, and that in order to cure it, the blood must be purified and enriched by internal remedies. Careful experiments and scientific investigations have taught us that eczema is purely skin disease, and curable through the skin alone. A great majority of persons afflicted with eczema have no other ailment, which is accepted as positive proof that it is purely a skin disease. Having established this fact, the chemists of the American Drug and Press Association set about to compound a prescription that would successfully cope with this disease, and after much investigating brought out Meritol Eczema Remedy, the effect of which is marvelous. If you are afflicted with this loathsome disease, do not delay trying Meritol Eczema Remedy. You will be surprised at its prompt action, its soothing effect and its permanent results. Reliable Drug Co. are commissioned by the association to sell it in Janesville.

Hot Water When You Want It

EVERY self-respecting man and woman likes to keep clean, and glories in the luxury of a good bath. Perhaps it is cleanliness that makes us self-respecting, or perhaps it is the other way around, but we all want everything that will add to the convenience and comfort of the bath room.

Possibly you do not know that it is possible to have an unlimited supply of hot water—hot water whenever you want it, winter or summer—hot as long as you want it—hot as long as it runs.

Unless you have seen or heard about the wonderful RUUD AUTOMATIC GAS WATER HEATER this may sound like a pretty big claim, but, like all ingenious devices, it is extremely simple.

The RUUD is in the cellar out of sight and out of mind. The moment any hot water faucet is turned on anywhere in the house, the gas is automatically lighted in the RUUD and the water is heated as it flows through the hot copper coils. When the faucet is closed the gas is automatically turned off.

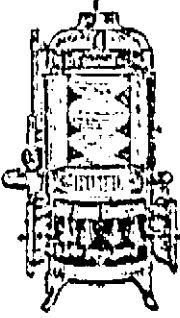

There is a RUUD in actual operation at our salesrooms. It will interest you to come in and see it work.

How the RUUD Operates

When you turn a hot water faucet, the water pressure operates a valve which turns on the gas in the burner. All the water, before reaching the faucet, must flow through turn after turn of copper coil, which is directly over the flame of the burners.

Now comes the most wonderful part—if the water should become too hot, a temperature regulator, operated by the expansion of a copper rod, automatically reduces the flow of the gas. When it starts to cool, the temperature regulator turns on the gas again. This continues until the hot water faucet is closed, when the gas goes out, and the RUUD ceases to work.

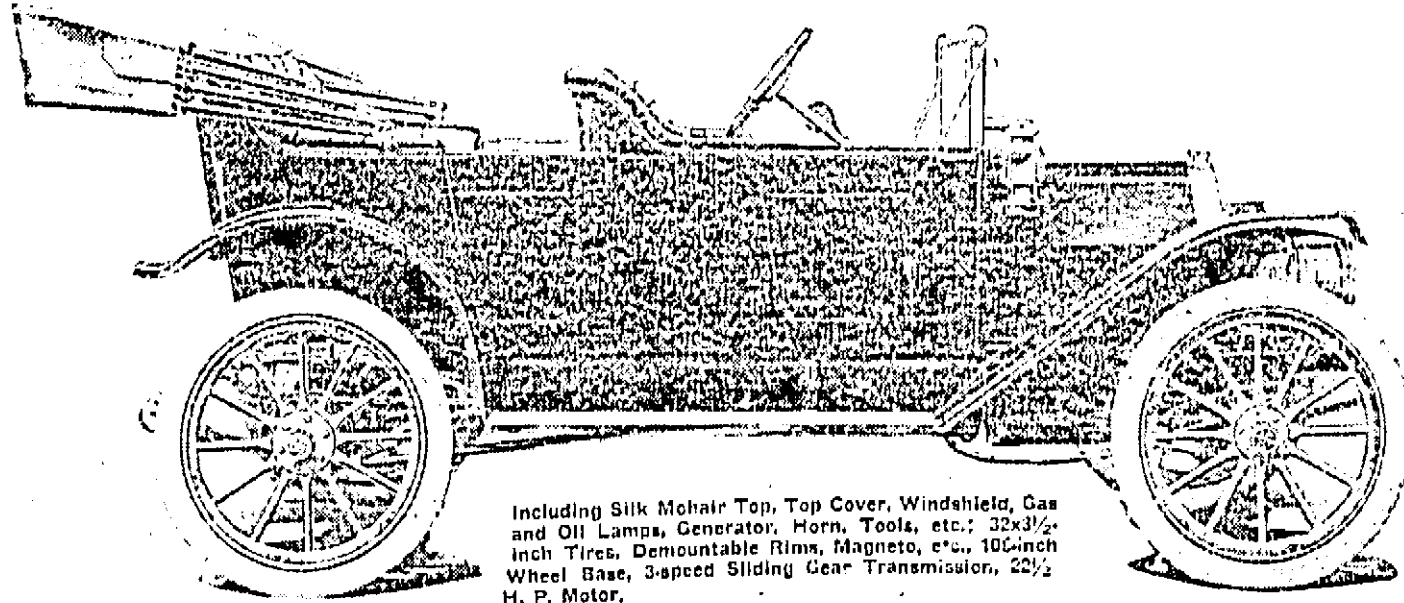

No more water is heated than is actually used—no more gas is burned than enough to keep the water at a fixed temperature, and it is all done without even a thought on your part.

WOMAN SUFFRAGE.

POLITICAL questions have always been a subject of common interest and family conversation with us. We perhaps have had too much of it. But how about families that have had none of it? A large field of thought and action and human endeavor is cut out of their table talk.

To my mind the great advantage of making men and women equally responsible in determining public policies, is that it would bring the problems of government, laws, elections directly into the home for discussion. They would cease to be something unrelated and remote from the center of interest and become a part of the industrial, social, religious, educational questions now are.

Here in the capital of our nation men do not vote. They must go to Congress to get indirectly what they want, and they have no redress if they are turned down as they often are. There is no question that it would civilize the civic sense and react favorably on the citizenship of the District of Columbia if men were given suffrage. So I believe suffrage would enlarge women's lives and increase their influence and usefulness.

"We are already so overcrowded," many women say. Yes, we are. But have you ever noticed how the larger interest often includes the smaller? Since the automobile came into general use, how the dust problem has grown for us housekeepers. If we had direct responsibility in the maintenance of good roads, keeping them oiled and sprinkled, we might eliminate enough housework to more than compensate for the time given to a public duty; and the sprinkling wagon would settle the disease germs which the children might catch instead of our dust cloth.

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON.

IT REMINDED me," said the lady-who-always-knows-somewhat, "of something a maid I had when I was first married said to me."

The lady-who-always-knows-somewhat had been in to call on a neighbor of ours who had just come back from a long visit. She had been telling us how enthusiastic this woman's daughter was at her return, and how she could not seem to do enough for her mother. This was a new character for the daughter. She had the reputation of being a decidedly selfish girl who lets her mother wait on her by inches and rewards her with rudeness and impatience.

We expressed our interest as to what the girl's spasm of exuberant appreciation reminded the lady-who-always-knows-somewhat of, and the lady went on:

"It was one time when I was housecleaning, and I wanted to get everything clean together for once, and I'd been working hard enough to kill myself and I just gave out and had to go to bed. I had a jolly little Irish girl, just over, for a maid, and when she brought me up my tea that night she said, 'Sure, darlin', I think you'll have to be after doing your cleaning more like the robins feed their young.'"

"And how is that?" I said.

"A little at a time and oftener," she explained.

"A little at a time and oftener?"

How many things that would simplify besides housecleaning.

How often we try to pay debts of kindness or gratitude in a lump—at Christmas-time, perhaps—when the payment could so much better be made "as the robins feed their young."

How often we try to acquire accomplishments or qualities of character by a spasm of intense and prolonged effort, whereas the only real way to acquire most things worth acquiring is by efforts made "as the robins feed their young."

The world outdoors has many lessons for us. Animal and vegetable life have many wise words to say to us of serenity, of patience and of self-control. If we will but listen.

But few, I think, are wiser than the robin's lesson as translated by the little Irish girl.

Grant us in this impatient life to still remember that there are many, many things which can best be done "as the robins feed their young, a little at a time and oftener."

The Candid Girl

Gives Some Suggestions for Grandmother's Happiness.

"I had grandchildren," said the Candid Girl, "seems to me I would feel called upon at times to tell them a few things."

"That's the true grandmotherly feeling," said niece slightly ironically.

The Candid Girl ignored the remark. "I would tell them, for one thing, that what was becoming to twenty was not becoming to sixty, and that I didn't care to wear my hair in a 'psyche knot' nor to dress in gowns buttoned down the back. It may be there are no old ladies nowadays, but it seems to me to insist that sixty shall be garbed like twenty-five is a species of cruelty."

"And I would furthermore like to tell them that I would rather spend my time in some more pleasant fashion than having my face massaged, that I have no objection to wrinkles, and since they are on my face and not on theirs I can't see why it matters to them."

"But it's so medieval to have wrinkles," said niece.

"And so artificial to have them all ironed out, and paint and powder applied to cover the marks of the iron, so to speak," said the Candid Girl. "Seems to me no grandmothers are hardly grandmothers when they are all marcelled and massaged and straight-fronted. Of course, if they want to be it's all right; but if they don't want to be, then it's time, I think, for a little plain talking to their grandchildren."

"I would like to tell them also that I don't care for motoring, that I have gone by the age of a thirty-million-hour gait, and that a slow, safe old horse is more to my liking."

"I would gently hint to them, too, that I liked a carpet on my room and a comfortable rocking chair instead of rugs and mission furniture."

"And I think I would tell them quite plainly that if I didn't know golf and bridge, I did know some things equally valuable, and that my observations hadn't shown me that the younger generation had cornered all the knowledge worth while."

"A good many grandmothers talk like that," said niece wearily. "But I don't know as it does much good. You have to grow old before you can appreciate it. Young people do not know what it is to be old, and the old folks won't remember they were once young. And there you are."

The Candid Girl sighed. "It's a pity they can't be mutually helpful, as it is intended. The old folks could keep young, and the young folks have the benefit of their experience, if they would only meet on one middle ground."

If you but smile.

FOR EVERYDAY MEALS.

Save the left-over eggs from breakfast and cook them until hard, four or five eggs cut in slices into a cupful of cream sauce, seasoned with salt, pepper and onion juice, covered with crumbs and baked until hot, makes a nice hot supper or luncheon dish. The eggs may be added to escalloped potatoes, adding to the food value of that dish.

Curried Eggs.—Melt two table-spoonsfuls of butter in a saucepan, cook a slice of onion in it until brown, then remove it. Add two table-spoonsfuls of flour, a teaspoonful of curry powder and a fourth of a teaspoonful of salt. Cook five minutes, then add one and a fourth cupfuls of milk; when thick add five hard-cooked eggs cut lengthwise. Serve at once with plain boiled rice. A little lemon juice improves this dish for some tastes.

Prunes are one of our most wholesome fruits and may be served as a dessert when combined with eggs and baked.

Prune Whip.—Pick over and wash a third of a pound of prunes, soak several hours in cold water to cover, then cook in the same water until soft. Remove the stones, rub through a sieve and add a half cup of sugar, add together until thick. Beat the whites of five eggs until stiff, add the prune mixture gradually and a table-spoonful of lemon juice. Mix lightly in a buttered baking dish and bake in a slow oven for twenty minutes. Serve with a boiled custard or whipped cream.

Calf's Liver en Casserole.—Cut the liver in slices and hard with strips of salt pork or bacon. Put the liver into the casserole, add six or eight small onions, four or five small carrots well scraped and cut in quarters, a few fresh mushrooms if at hand or dried ones previously soaked, three sprigs of parsley and two cups of strained tomatoes. A pint of broth or boiling water with beef extract. Cook about two hours, add a table-spoonful each of butter and flour well mixed to the broth and the juice of half a lemon. Remove the parsley and sprinkle with fresh parsley chopped. Serve from the casserole.

DRESSY TO-DO COSTUME

There are ten thousand costumes like bathing suits, to be worn only for exhibition and the model here illustrated is a good example for such purpose. This, however, is a stunning suit and without the tulle and lace decoration on sleeves and skirt would be charming for morning or afternoon wear. The white dress or light-weight broadcloth for the dress and for the skirt, edged with apricot satin, for the skirt is decidedly attractive. The cut of skirt is decidedly attractive.

And Other Places.

If every manufacturer were compelled to live within the shadow of his own mill chimney, Manchester would be a much better place than it is.—Lloyd's Weekly.

Tobacco in the Orient.

Tobacco is universal in the Orient, and the word chooroot and its came from Madras. The first cigars seen by Columbus were wrapped with corn husks.

Violated Quarantine Regulations.

A man in North Carolina was fined $100 for driving cattle through counties quarantined on account of Texas fever into a county outside quarantined area.

Hairdressing Modes

The prevalent modes in hairdressing eliminate the necessity of the use of rats or puffs. No false hair is required in either of the models illustrated.

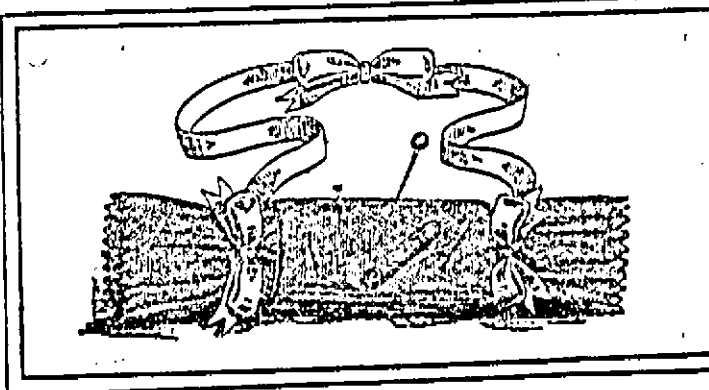

FROM NIGHT SCHOOL TO HEAD DESIGNER IN COTTON MILL.

Miss Alice G. Dexter of Pawtucket, Rhode Island.

Pawtucket, R. I.—The youngest of her unusual ability, secured largely woman in New England to be in through her own efforts in a night charge of the designing room of a school after a hard day's work in the large manufacturing establishment in same mill at which she is now employed. Miss Alice G. Dexter of this city, played. She is still in her twenties and has shown such a remarkable talent for creating new designs that a position of responsibility because of brilliant future is predicted for her.

Desk Novelty

Will give a sketch of a little novelty in the shape of a combination cushion and pen-wiper, either for placing upon the writing table or for hanging from one of the handles of the drawers.

It is made to represent somewhat a Christmas cracker, and it is tied up on either side with smart little ribbon bows. It can be made in silk or cloth, and the edges of the material should be cut into points on either side and then the uncut edges sewn together, so that, finished, it forms

SOME COAT COLLARS SUGGEST A HOOD EFFECT.

This collar of English Eyelet embroidery, which is matched by cuffs, is do few coats without something in the shape of caps, hood or fancy collar, hanging at the neck. The collar set pictured is made of very handsome eyelet insertion bordered with colored satin, the collar having a center of black velvet which fits around the neck.

MANY GOOD RECIPES

COME CULINARY FRILLS OUT OF THE ORDINARY.

Things That the Hostess Especially Should Bear in Mind—Some Delicious Salads—To Secure Good Cranberries.

All fruit salads are improved by marinating in French dressing, though later served with mayonnaise.

Instead of the individual pate, it is more popular now to pass one or two large pates, each guest serving herself. Fill with mushrooms, oysters or creamed sweetbreads.

Meatballs or French rolls for formal use are more diminutive than ever. The former should be the size of a fifty-cent piece and a quarter of an inch thick.

A delicious salad is made from different nuts, white grapes, a little shredded grape fruit, pineapple cut into cubes, and shredded celery. Mask in mayonnaise or serve with a cream dressing.

When a boiled egg is the usual breakfast dish vary it by breaking it raw into the egg cup and cooking in hot water to the desired consistency. The flavor is quite different than when cooked in the shell.

Fingers of bread about four inches long, quarter of an inch wide, and the same thickness, buttered thickly and browned in a quick oven, are delicious to serve with boiled eggs.

Salad is now usually passed in a salad dish, but when served directly on the individual plates an appetizing and artistic effect can be had by making nests of shredded lettuce or endive, in which are eggs made of cream cheese colored with spinach juice and sprinkled thickly with paprika or black pepper. Cover with mayonnaise.

In baking cake stilt the flour in the batter and you will have a much more tender cake.

Good cranberries cannot be made if the sugar is allowed to boil in with the berries. After the cranberries are soft and strained through a colander add a scant pound of sugar to a quart of berries, bring to a boil, and cook four minutes. Put three-quarters of a pint of boiling water on the berries when first cooked.

Novel Combination.

It often happens when the housewife is busied with her baking or cooking that she must waste minutes hunting for her salt and pepper box. A new device is the combining of these and adding a flour box also. This is a three-story arrangement of boxes of graduated sizes.

The bottom one holds two quarts of flour, the next holds a small sack of salt, while the topmost box holds the pepper.

The whole arrangement is not more than a foot and a half high, and may be slipped into a corner of the pantry or hung in the kitchen on a nail. The little boxes are made of crochery and may be had in pink, blue and brown.

Love at First Sight.

DAILY DIET AND HEALTH HINTS

By DR. T. J. ALLEN
Food Specialist

QUOTED FROM A THEOLOGICAL.

The importance of the monodiet has been urged by giving the results of original experiments, by argument based on physiological principles and by reference to historical examples. Those who attach special importance to the references in the Bible to such cases will be interested in the following quotation from a theological writer: "The children of Israel were fed 40 years on manna, a non-flesh diet. Over 60,000 people were fed on one kind of food. This proves that one food is best. More than three kinds at a meal is injurious. Daniel and the three worthies ate only pulses (beans) and water, and thereby were ten times wiser than the flesh-eating magicians and astrologers."

NERVOUS DEBILITY SYMPTOMS ARE PAIN

Stomach Trouble, Uneasy Sleep, Nervousness, Little Energy, No Vitality, etc., Tona Vita Brings Back Health.

The country is filled with half sick, worn out, nervous people. The cause is nervous debility and it is produced by the strain and worry of modern life.

The symptoms of nervous debility are stomach trouble, uneasy sleep, nervousness, little energy, or vitality, constipation, poor circulation, bad memory, cold feet, weak back and susceptibility to coughs and colds.

A man or woman afflicted with this debilitated condition has little happiness, as the trouble always produces a mental depression that causes the sufferer to look on the gloomy side of life, and be dissatisfied with the present and have small hope for the future.

Anything to be successful, should add to the happiness of the human race. No medicine ever before sold in the United States has been so tremendously successful as the wonderful new tonic "Tona Vita." The reason is plain. "Tona Vita" is bringing back health and happiness to thousands of discouraged, "rundown" men and women.

Are you in this rundown debilitated condition? Do you tire easily, sleep poorly and feel half dead most of the time? If you are you can get immediate relief and renew your ability to fight life's battles by letting this great "Tonic build you up and restore your strength. Don't drag around feeling miserable and hopeless another day. You will positively be astonished how quickly "Tona Vita" will start you on the road to health. The tonic is sold with the distinct understanding that it must renew your health, or the price is refunded.

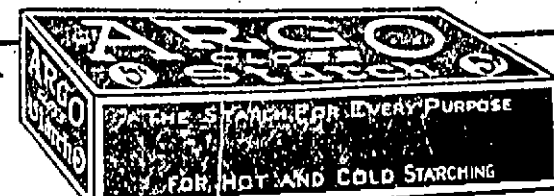

Leo's Rhubarb Laxative is an assistant remedy to "Tona Vita." It is to be used in cases of chronic constipation. There is no plant known to modern medicine so thoroughly reliable and harmless as rhubarb. It is nature's own laxative and instead of straining the intestines, like other drugs, tones them up and gives them new strength. Leo's Rhubarb Laxative is the safest possible laxative for children and they like the taste. It should be in every household.

These two great preparations are sold in Jansville by The Smith Pharmacy.

NEW GRAND STAND RAISED YESTERDAY

New Buildings on Evansville Fair Grounds Are Fast Assuming Completion—Other Evansville News.

(Special to this Gazette.)

Evansville, Aug. 22.—The new grandstand on the fairground was raised yesterday and the new art building and the secretary's office have been moved onto the ground recently purchased by the association. The work on the other new buildings is being pushed rapidly forward, and it is now certain that all will be completed before the opening of the fair. Among the attractions of the 1911 fair will be Clark's Dog and Pony show with the diving pony, the Guthrie family of acrobats and wire walkers and Hamilton's trotting ostrich. Two Cars of Silos.

Frank Hynes returned from Kalamazoo, Mich., where he purchased two carloads of silos which he had sold to farmers living near Evansville and Brooklyn. He also bought an on-alago cutter which he will own jointly with John Higley. Each carload contains four silos. Mr. Hynes will rebuild the silo which was wrecked by the storm of July 3, on his home farm near town, and also bought one for the farm owned by Mrs. Hynes, near Brooklyn. The remainder of the carload will go, one carload to John Gillespie, Orville Jones, Mrs. C. S. Ward, John C. Meyer, Fred Boyce, John Thompson, and P. H. Bremer.

NOTES FOR CITY FARMERS ONLY.

(By H. L. RANN.)

Scientists and psychologists have long been baffled as to the reason why a hen always insists upon crossing the road when about to be run down by an automobile or a motor car.

Some hens will stand on one foot in the face of a touring car and turn a pirouette that would make a ballet dancer look about as speedy as a round house turntable, then trip across the road with the grace of a rhinoceros.

Why is it that the average Shetland pony has the disposition of a dyspeptic ceyote? The Shetland is usually a pampered pet, and he ought to be as happy and gay as a man who wins forty cents on a curried straight, but instead of that he would rather alk his teeth into a rocky shoulder than lean up against a hallooed dinner.

We never saw a Shetland pony that had any more affection than a hot owl, and so far as we are concerned we would about as soon think of making a bosom companion of the double chimed hoo comarator. The only way to sweeten the disposition of this piece of stable brick-bat is to straighten him up with a red oak four-by-four, and even then he may beat you to it.

A bald-headed man writes to us to say that the popular impression that the common housefly has no stinger is a bigger myth than the story of the discovery of the Cardiff giant clad in a flannel night shirt and a gaiter.

This man says that he fell asleep on the fire escape one hot night recently, and found when he woke up that the top of his head looked like a cribbage board.

He declares that if the fly is not interrupted in his toil he can sink a shaft in an earlobe faster than a fat lady going through a bed of quack sand. We do not vouch for the accuracy of his views.

"Then send this bunchkin' to Souli Slack."

"Who Souli Slack?"

"She's my sister. She lives at Farm-er Slack's."

"What dat?"

"On the Anderson road, close enter the Sequatchee river."

While this conversation was going on Jakey continued his efforts to find something at his feet. He picked up a stone, rolled it in the handkerchief and threw them over the fence.

"What good dat do?" asked the colored woman, picking up the missile of war.

"When Souli gits it she'll know."

"Will dat wabe de Union sojer's neck?"

"Mebbe 't mought, 'n mebbe 't moughtn't."

"I can't go myself—I'm too ole—but I'll start hit along. Reckon de dark-ness'll tote it."

She picked up her basket and was moving away when Jakey called to her.

"Auntie!"

"What, honey?"

"Ter mought git some up to tote hit ter an old nigger named Jefferson Randolph, ez lives up a creek 'bout five mile from hyar, near the pike runnen dat a-way. Mebbe he'll pass hit on."

"Who nuff?"

"Yo' boy, thar?"

The father's wife was standing in an open window regarding Jakey severely.

"Come away from that ar fence!"

Jakey slipped along toward her, doing a little waltzing as he went.

"Ef dat ar boy wasn't sich a chile, I'd think he'd ben up to sumpin'."

"What var yer a-doen by dat ar fence?" she asked when he came up.

"Nuthen."

"What var dat y' throwed over?"

"Oh, I war only throwen stones."

"What yer throwen stones that a-way fur?"

"Wur fun."

"Well, y' just keep away from th' fence or y' shan't play in th' yard at all. I'll shet y' up with dat big brother o' yours."

"Waal, I won't go thar no more." And Jakey took a top out of his trousers pocket and began plugging imaginary tops on the ground.

Mark hoped that the preparations for the expected move would cause them to forget him. He was not destined to be so fortunate. The second day after his capture he was taken before a court martial held in a house occupied by the staff department, to be tried on the charge of being a spy.

The court was assembled and ready to proceed with the case. An officer had been detailed to defend the prisoner, but he had not arrived and the court waited. Presently a clatter of horse's hoofs was heard outside. It stopped before the door of the house.

morning at sunrise," said the president, "but in deference to the prisoner's counsel I will compromise with him midway between a week, as he desires, and tomorrow, or allowing three days. The sentence of the court is that the prisoner be hanged by the neck until he is dead on the twenty-seventh day of August, eighteen hundred and sixty-two, or three days from today."

Before Mark was led out of the courtroom his counsel approached him. Considering the prejudice against the prisoner, another man would have suffered him to go without a word. Not so Captain Fitz Hugh. He strode up to Mark, the officers and soldiers present making a way for him, leaving him alone with the prisoner by withdrawing to another part of the room, and extended his hand.

"One thing is plain to me," he said, "whoever you are, you are a gentleman, and I believe you have sacrificed your life to your sense of duty. I am sorry that you did not trust me with your secret. Then I might have done something for you. As it is, I have done nothing."

"It would have availed nothing," said Mark. "You have done all you could under any circumstances. Besides, had I told you who I am, you might have felt it your bounden duty to your cause to make known the facts."

"Never," said Fitz Hugh proudly. "I owe more to myself, more to my sense of honor, more to my birth and breeding, more even to my state than to the Confederacy."

"Captain Fitz Hugh," said Mark with a tremble, "you are of too fine grain. You are too frank, too truthful. Do not feel a moment's regret at not having been able to save me. Mine is but one of thousands of lives that must go out in this great struggle for human liberty. Mine is an ordinary nature. You are fitted for nobler work than war. I trust you will be spared to become an honor to your state and a reunited country. From the bottom of my heart I thank you."

The men clasped hands, and Mark was led away between two soldiers.

CHAPTER VIII.

DR. CAUSE ON FREDERICK.

ON the morning after Jakey's interview with the colored woman through the crack in the jollyard fence Souli Slack was washing dishes by an open window in the kitchen, an addition built of pine boards to one of the united houses which formed the Slack dwelling. The sun was shining brightly, and a morning glory had trailed up to grow about the window was fresh with dew. Souli's heart felt unusually light. The air was so fresh; the sun was so bright; the morning glory flowers had such a companionable look in them that Souli was very happy.

Suddenly there came to her a quick slinking away from the pleasurable sensation. A sense of danger rushed in to take its place. Surely something horrible was about to happen.

In a moment she heard the clatter of horse's hoofs coming at a gallop. Looking up the road, of which she had a view from the window, she saw a horse covered with foam tearing toward her, with a negro boy on his back.

THE BOY POKED THE HANDKERCHIEF AT HER.

"What's dat?" asked Souli, her face white as ashes.

"Dunno. Left wid de niggers at Mr. Torbut's plantation. I's Mr. Torbut's nigger."

"Who tol y' ter tote hit hyar?"

"Ole nigger what leabe hit."

"What'd he say?"

"Nuffen." And the boy pointed to the corner as if that was sufficient explanation for any one.

Souli could not read what was written there, but she knew Mark had been captured, and it was fair to suppose that he was at or near Chattanooga.

"Waal," she said, "y' niggers has passed this ter me; reckon y' ken pass me back; I'll go 'th y'." Air y' hungry?"

"I's rid since one o'clock dis mawnin'."

"Waal, take yer horse round ter the barn fur a feed, and then come in hyar."

The darky showed his white teeth and old as he was bliden. When he came in Souli placed something to eat before him, and then went in to inform her mother of what had happened.

Souli Slack on Farmer Slack's
Anderson road night September
De Cause of freedom.

"Maw," she said, "Jakey's tuk."

"An' anker!" exclaimed the mother with a scream. "Air they goen ter bang him?"

"Don't know. The sojer's tuk, too. Reckon they'll bang him, sarten."

"How'd y' know?"

Souli told her about giving Mark the handkerchief and his return "in de cause of freedom."

"What shall we do?" moaned the mother, rocking in concert with her feelings.

"I'm goen ter Chattanooga ter find out."

"They'll hang y', too," whined Mrs. Slack.

"Reckon not. I mought find a way ter git Jakey outen jail."

"N' th' sojer too?"

"Mebbe."

"Air y' goen jest y' air?"

Souli thought awhile without replying. She would go with the colored boy of course. He could show her the way, and she might pass for some relative. But that would not do. She was white, and the boy was black. Why not darken her face? The idea was a good one.

"Maw," she said, "I'm a-goon out ter find some berries to make me a merr-latter," and before her mother could reply she was off. When she returned the negro boy had finished his breakfast. She told him that she would be ready to go back with him in half an hour. While she was talking to him he fell asleep.

The Tendency.

"So you bid the returned hero a tremendous welcome home?" "Yes. We gave him so much entertainment when he landed that he didn't really get home for two days."

(b) Any package or shipment containing more than twenty pounds of fish, except lake trout taken from inland waters of this state may be transported to any point within this state, provided that shipments be marked as provided by law and that said shipments be accompanied by the shipper from point of shipment to place of destination.
Lake Trout.
Shipments of lake trout not to exceed twenty pounds in weight taken from the inland waters of this state may be made to points within or without this state, when accompanied by the shipper, provided that not more than one such shipment shall be made during any seven days by the same person.
NOTE—All violations of shipments as herein outlined make same illegal and may be seized, confiscated and sold by any warden as provided by law.
Non-Resident Hook and Line.
Male non-residents over the age of 16 years are required to take out license to fish with hook and line in any inland waters of this state during open season. License fee one dollar. Licenses are issued by all deputy game wardens or by state game warden.
It is unlawful to take, catch or kill any game fish by any other method than by angling or trolling with not more than five lines to each person, and with not more than one hook or trolling spoon attached to each line. And it shall be unlawful to leave said line in the water unattended by the user thereof, except as otherwise provided by law. Or to use at any one time more than five lines with more than one hook attached to each line for the purpose of taking, catching or killing fish.
The true sportsman returns all baby fish to the waters from whence taken. In this way everyone is benefited. BE A SPORTSMAN.

Size of Whales.
The average sperm whale is about 50 feet long, weighs 110,000 pounds and will yield 60,000 pounds of blubber (from which 48,000 pounds of train oil can be made) and 3,000 pounds of whalebone.
True Wisdom.
Wisdom is habit in the plainest garb, and she walks modestly, unheeded of the gaping and wondering crowd. Her secrets are revealed to the careful, the patient and the humble.—Bishop Spalding.

Wireless Telegraphy in East Africa.
The railway and the telegraph are playing an important part in the economic conquest of Africa. Within the last few months two wireless telegraph stations have been established at Muanza and Bukoba, German East Africa, by the government. Each of these has a radius of 600 kilometers (373 miles). Muanza is now the terminus of the land lines of the German colony. According to newspaper statement a powerful additional wireless station will soon be opened at Tabora, equipped with apparatus for transmission to a distance of nearly 2,600 miles. With this station in operation the merchants and authorities in German East Africa can communicate with the Cameroons, and thence by the German West African cable to Europe, and be in an independent position instead of having, as at present, to avail themselves of the English cable company's line via Zanzibar, Mombasa and Aden, or Zanzibar and Cape Town.

LANDS.
IF IT IS A FARM you want to sell or trade or real estate you want to get action on, there is but one paper in the southwestern part of Nebraska that reaches the people you want to do business with, and that is the Hastings (Nebr.) Tribune, daily and weekly.

FIND LAND BUYERS through advertising in the Daily Journal-World, Lawrence, Kansas. The farm lands about Lawrence are the best in Kansas and therefore are highly priced. Young farmers are looking for cheap or farm. The Daily Journal-World has a sworn circulation of 6,000, about half of which is in the country and carries a full page of Want Ads. Rates, 1c per word 1 time, 3/4c per word for one week. The World-Compan, Lawrence, Kansas. 68-41

ML. ADVERTISER—For results, three things must be considered—circulation, class of readers and price. The Reporter gives you ad greater measure of service for less money than any other newspaper in Northern Iowa. The Reporter is read by 20,000 people every issue. Advertising rates one-half cent a word each insertion. Cash with order. Reporter, Waterloo, Ia. 46-41

HERALD, Grand Forks, N. D., circulation 10,200. Talk to the people in prosperous North Dakota through the columns of The Grand Forks Herald, read every day by 30,000, in 150 towns and rural routes in the northern half of the state. Classified ads, For Sale, Help Wanted, Exchange, Real Estate, etc., for 1/2 cent a word each insertion. Send stamps to The Herald, Grand Forks, N. D. 45-41

ADVERTISERS—The great state of North Dakota offers unlimited opportunities for business to classified advertisers. The recognized advertising medium is the Fargo Daily and Sunday Courier-News, the only seven day paper in the state and the paper which carries the largest amount of classified advertising. The Courier-News covers North Dakota like a blanket; reaching all parts of the state the day of publication; it is the paper to use in order to get results. Rates, one cent per word first insertion; one-half cent per word succeeding insertions; fifty cents per line per month. Address The Courier-News, Fargo, N. D. 20-41

FARMS FOR SALE—Southwest Iowa is one of the richest agricultural districts in the world, and the Daily Nonpareil is practically the only daily paper read in this territory. It is issued morning, evening and Sunday, and with its 17,000 circulation covers the field like a blanket. If you want results from your advertisement, try it. One cent a word for first insertion, and one-half cent a word for each subsequent insertion. Classified in display, 25c an inch. The Daily Nonpareil, Council Bluffs, Iowa. 45-41
